POTATOES "OVER THERE"

One of France's greatest losses in the enemy's spring offensive has been 50,000 acres of land sown with potatoes by her soldiers behind the line.

Germany announces this capture to the German people with as much acclaim as if each one of these acres had been a sun. For Germany does not have to be told the value of potatoes. She herself has reduced potato production to such a science that with less than one-tenth of our area she produces five times as many potatoes as we do in the United States!

Nevertheless, with this immense potato supply, she does not let her potatoes to her people, afraid that they will waste this valuable vegetable if she allows them to have too many at a time on hand.

Last winter in Berlin the potato ration per week per capita was seven pounds ten and a half ounces. Until the possibility of getting rich wheat supplies from Russia opened up, there was considerable agitation throughout Germany for a larger potato ration, for the German housewife knew if she could put plenty of potatoes on her table her family would never miss the lack of bread.

England, too, has learned that she cannot afford to slight this nourishing, if unbecoming, vegetable. Perhaps it's the Irish who have taught her that with plenty of potatoes she can bear her lack of meat and wheat cheerfully!

So England, like Uncle Sam, is doing all she can to encourage a greater production of potatoes next year and to teach her people to eat this vegetable freely in place of bread. In a recent potato bulletin gotten out by the English food ministry the following suggestion and recipes are given to the patriotic English housewife. They are equally applicable, however, to American housewives who are patriotically making potatoes figure more prominently on their tables than ever before in order to do with less bread.

"Potatoes," this English potato bulletin warns, "should never be peeled before cooking. Everyone who peels a potato today is doing an unpatriotic thing in wasting the nation's food, and is directly helping the U-boats to starve us out."

"The best part of the potato lies next to the skin, and even this peeling wastes three to four ounces in every pound. Potatoes should, therefore (except for such dishes as Irish stew), always be boiled in their skins. If baked in their jackets, a layer of the best part sticks to the skin, and is unusually wasted."

The bulletin also urges the English housewife who must put up lunches for her children or husband to eat away from home to use cold cooked potatoes in her sandwiches in place of bread.

The following is one of the most popular recipes taken from this English potato bulletin:

Devonshire Drop Cakes—One and a half pounds cold cooked potatoes, one-fourth pint milk, two ounces margarine, three ounces grated cheese, salt and pepper.

Mash the potatoes and mix in the cheese. Put the margarine and milk into a sauce pan and heat. Then mix thoroughly with the potatoes. Season with salt and pepper, and place large spoonfuls of the mixture in separate

ONE DEAD AND MANY INJURED IN WRECK ON D. & R. G.

SALT LAKE, June 13.—Andrew O. Collings of Salida, Colo., was killed and fifty-three persons were injured at 1:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon near Eleventh South and Fifth West streets, when Denver & Rio Grande westbound passenger train No. 1 jumped the track and went over an embankment into a ditch.

Several hours after the wreck occurred Sheriff John S. Corless and Deputy Sheriff Carl Carstensen arrested Y. Yakebe, Japanese section foreman of the track workers, who had been placing new ties at the point where the train left the track. Yakebe is being held at the county jail pending the result of an official investigation, but Sheriff Corless stated last night that he will swear to a complaint this morning charging him with involuntary manslaughter. Yakebe is declared to have caused the pulling of the spikes of the ties and then to have failed to send back a flagman to protect the oncoming train, which rushed into the loosened section of the main line without any warning.

The train was said to have been traveling at a high rate of speed when it left the track because of spreading rails. Four coaches were thrown down the embankment, two of them on their sides and one almost on end. Two other cars of the train were badly wrecked. Conductor Jacob Moss said that the train was making more than thirty miles an hour when the wreck occurred and that it was an hour late. Others declared the train was making between forty-five and fifty miles an hour.

The wreck occurred a short distance north and west of Eleventh South and Fifth West streets at 1:25 o'clock. The train was due in the city at 12:15 o'clock. Engineer Fred King said after the accident that there was no warning given and that the first intimation he had of trouble was when he noticed the swaying cars. Almost at the same moment came the crash of the wreck.

Officials of the railroad said their records showed that forty-three people had been injured in the wreck. Many, however, of whom no information was secured, left the scene after administering first-aid themselves.

Official Sustains Injury.
One of the passengers was Thomas F. Durkin, assistant superintendent of the road. Mr. Durkin was in one of the day coaches which were bumped and dragged along the track and right-of-way on their sides. When the cars finally came to a stop Mr. Durkin found himself perched in one of the hand baggage baskets. He suffered a badly bruised leg and arm and some minor cuts.

WHY SOCIETY WOMEN WASH THEIR OWN HAIR

They do, not because it is a fad, but because they wish to obtain the greatest possible hair beauty and be sure they are not using anything harmful. They have found that in washing the hair it is never wise to use a makeshift, but is always advisable to use a preparation made for shampooing only. Many of our friends say they get the best results from a simple home-made Canthrox mixture. You can use this at a cost of about 2 cents a shampoo by getting some Canthrox from your druggist and dissolving a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes enough shampoo liquid to apply to all the hair instead of just the top of the head, as with most preparations. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear in the rinsing water. Your hair will be so fluffy that it will look much heavier than it is. Its luster and softness will also delight you.—Advertisement.

CITIES TO TAKE I. W. W. IN HAND

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—It is the desire of the federal government that the I. W. W. agitators and others of anarchistic tendencies be prosecuted locally and not given hours to leave a city, thus foisting themselves upon another. Inspector of Police Julian of New York told the convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs here this afternoon.

Inspector Julian announced he had been sent here by the government to bring about a closer co-operation between the police departments of the country and the government officers in apprehending disloyalists.

The convention went into executive session afterwards to discuss methods of dealing with the I. W. W. problem.

SAYS IT ACTED LIKE A CHARM.

Coughs, colds, sore throat or bronchial troubles which persist at this time of the year usually are of an obstinate character. That is all the more reason why a truly reliable remedy like Foley's Honey and Tar Compound should be used. Mrs. Margaret Smale, Bishop, Cal., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is a grand remedy; more than is claimed for it. I was suffering from a cold last week and used the medicine and it acted like a charm." Contains no opiates. A. R. McIntyre Drug Co.—Advertisement.

NEW SOCIAL LECTURE LEAGUE

"It reads like a story book," is the way one of America's most happily married society leaguers opened the subject of her remarks on Hair Culture, at the first annual lecture of her newly inaugurated Course on Timely Topics at her home on the Hudson just outside of New York City.

"I have been a great outdoor enthusiast all my life and I make it a rule to do without my hat whenever possible, both in the daytime as well as evening. Jack, my husband, some years ago remarked that I would have to probably give up my running about bareheaded now that I was getting a bit gray. But I am not to be outdone simply by a few or many gray hairs. I went right to the most reliable authority I could get on the subject. The result was I avoided putting a lot of harmful dyes on my hair and I began using a Hair Color Restorer called Q-Ban and in no time Jack had to confess he didn't understand how my hair got so beautiful. Was I dressing it different, or what?"

"You may rest assured I haven't told him anything about it, although he very often remarks my hair certainly does look fine. Q-Ban is our little secret."—Advertisement.
